

Election Statement:

I want to make life better in Toronto as the Mayor. I realised that the previous and current government have not worked as effectively and efficiently. People in Toronto have been paying taxes but have been getting less. So, I decided to step in and make Toronto great again.

Platforms:

1. Homeless: One of the main issues I want to resolve is homelessness. When I visited downtown Toronto recently, I realised that there were more and more homeless people than my last visit. Every step I took, all I saw was homeless people. Some smoked. It smelt like drugs. I also spotted some strange people as if they had mental issues. People need help. I want to take this matter into my own hands. Although there are different welfare programs available to them, I think compulsory treatment and rehab programs are best for them.
2. Affordable Housing: During this short three years of the pandemic, lots and lots of torontonians has lost their homes and their jobs. We all deserve a decent living in this metropolitan city. It is my priority to make housing more affordable and more sustainable. What we need to do is to clear all the red tape in the Government and speed up the process of building affordable housing. Speeding this process up will lead to more housing and more affordability around the housing market!
3. Public Safety: Recently, there have been many violent incidents in the TTC, parks and around the neighbourhood. I would like to make Torontonians feel safe by adding more police patrolling around the area. For the past few years there have been more and more incidents so these are my resolutions. The reason why I believe that having more police patrolling the area will improve the safety in the TTC is because of trust. I believe that the police will make a difference. More capable and better trained responses to potentially violent emergency calls. More public confidence in our police. But most of all, safer streets. Stabbings, pickpocketing, sudden attacks and more. I believe that if we improve security , less and less of these incidents will happen.
4. Traffic: My family love exploring new places. But the one thing that held us back was the traffic. Not to mention that many people wasted their time in unnecessary traffic jams. I want to solve this problem as soon as possible by repairing the potholes and clearing up the road blocks. Many infrastructure projects got delayed indefinitely. We need to identify the solutions to the problems accordingly whilst making people accountable. An independent review committee will be set up to deal with it.

5. Budget: The municipal government is facing huge debt problems and we can't have all programs to please everyone. So, we would need to review all government programs and prioritise our resources. We need to create a transparent and accountable government. At the same time, we need to negotiate with the provincial and federal governments with more budget support. Let's make our government effective and efficient!
